Managing change in the age of digital disruption

By Ivan Schouker

Managing Partner, Finarchitects LLC

Our century is seeing the advent of continual disruption. Incessant technological advances and changes largely driven by what is called digital technologies not only touch upon every individual, public and private entity but also are or will transform entire industries and ecosystems.

Ivan Schouker is a practitioner of organizational transformation, especially in finance and technology. His professional career encompasses investment banking in the United States and in Asia, strategy and organization consulting in Asia, Europe and US, and CEO of three financial institutions of which two online banks, and of an entertainment/sports group.
